Social Security Agreement between Australia and Canada

Australia’s social security system

Australia’s social security system is different to most other developed countries. Each person’s pension is paid by the Australian Government out of general funds, rather than through contributions paid by individuals and employers into a social insurance fund. For this reason, Australian pensions are income and asset tested.

The Department of Human Services (DHS) delivers Australian social security payments to individuals.

You will have to tell us about all of your, and in some instances, your partner’s income and assets if you want to claim an Australian pension.

How does the agreement help you?

The agreement generally allows you to lodge a claim for payment from either country. It also allows you to add together your periods of residence in Australia and periods of social security coverage in Canada, so you can meet the minimum requirements for payment.

Who can get an Australian payment?

If you live in Australia, Canada or another specified agreement country, you can lodge a claim for the Australian Age Pension, Disability Support Pension, Carer Payment, Parenting Payment and Bereavement Allowance in any of those countries.

To qualify under the agreement, you need to meet the following basic requirements:

Age Pension
You may be able to get Age Pension if:

- you are over the qualifying age (refer to humanservices.gov.au for details), and
- the total period of time you have lived in Australia and/or your periods of coverage in Canada adds up to more than 10 years.

Disability Support Pension
You may be able to get Disability Support Pension if:

- you have a disability, or
- you are permanently blind, and
- your disability/blindness occurred while you were living in Australia, or
- the total period of time you have lived in Australia and/or your periods of coverage in Canada add up to more than 10 years.
Carer Payment
You may be able to get Carer Payment if:
- you are providing full-time care for someone, and
- you have lived in Australia before.

Parenting Payment
You may be able to get Parenting Payment if:
- your partner is deceased, and
- you are caring for one or more children under eight years of age who have been to Australia before, and
- the total period of time you have lived in Australia and/or your periods of coverage in Canada add up to more than two years.

Bereavement Allowance
You may be able to get Bereavement Allowance if:
- your partner died while you were living together, and
- your partner died less than 14 weeks ago, and
- your partner died while you were living in Australia, or
- the total period of time you have lived in Australia and/or your periods of coverage in Canada add up to more than two years.

Note: if you live outside Australia when you claim, you generally need at least 12 months Australian Working Life Residence², of which six months must be continuous.

* There may be additional requirements you need to meet before you can be paid.

Who can get a Canadian payment?
Under the agreement, you can add periods of Australian Working Life Residence² to your periods of coverage in Canada to meet the minimum requirement for the Canadian Old Age Security Pension, Canada Pension Plan Retirement Pension, Disability Benefit and Survivor’s Pension.

Note: it is possible to get both the Old Age Security Pension and the Canada Pension Plan Retirement Pension at the same time.

The Canadian pension authorities make all decisions about Canadian payments. For more information about Canadian payments, you should contact the Canadian pension authorities³.

How do I claim?
If you are in Australia, to claim:
- an Australian payment under the agreement, go to humanservices.gov.au
- a Canadian payment, contact the department⁴, or
• lodge your claim at your nearest DHS Service Centre.

If you are in Canada, to claim:
• a Canadian payment, contact your local Canadian social insurance office
• an Australian payment:
  o contact your local Canadian social insurance office
  o the department, or
  o download the claim forms from humanservices.gov.au

You can also lodge your claim at any local Canadian social insurance office.

If you are in another specified agreement country⁵, to claim:
• an Australian payment contact the department, or
• download the claim forms from humanservices.gov.au

You can also lodge your claim at any local social insurance office in that third country.

To get a claim for a Canadian payment, contact the Canadian pension authorities³. You will need to lodge your claim for a Canadian payment directly with the Canadian pension authorities.

Claims for Australian payments can be lodged up to 13 weeks early. You must lodge your claim and all supporting documents at the same time. If you do not do this your claim may not be accepted.

Disclaimer
The information contained in this publication is intended only as a guide to payments and services available.

The information in this factsheet is accurate as at July 2017. If you use this publication after that date, please check with us that the details are up to date.
Should I lodge a claim?

We can’t be sure if you will get a payment, until you lodge a claim and your circumstances are taken into account. It is your responsibility to decide whether you lodge a claim for payment or not.

From what date are the payments available?

Most government payments are paid from, or after the date on which the application is made so the sooner you lodge your application, the quicker you may be paid.

For Australian payments, you must lodge your claim and all supporting documents at the same time. If you don’t your claim may not be accepted.

What do you need to do when dealing with a third party?

You may deal with a third party who is not a member of our staff. If you do so, please remember that we have not authorised any third parties to provide information or advice to you about payments.

Notes

| 1. Definition of a partner | For our purposes, a person is considered to be your partner if you and the person are living together, or usually live together; are married, in a registered relationship (opposite or same-sex), or in a de facto relationship (opposite or same-sex).

The department considers a person to be in a de facto relationship from the time they start living with another person as a member of a couple.

The department recognises all couples, opposite-sex and same-sex. |
|---|---|

2. Australian residence | ‘Australian residence’ means periods when you were residing in Australia as an Australian citizen or Australian permanent visa holder. Australian residence at any time is used to qualify for an Australian payment.

‘Working Life Residence’ is period/s of Australian residence between the ages of 16 and Australian age pension age only. |
